ATLANTA, August 2, 2010—Atlantic Trust, the private wealth management division of Invesco Ltd. (NYSE: IVZ), today announced the addition of Ryan McCleary, CFA, as a senior vice president and senior relationship manager in Houston, Gordon A.M. Ross as a vice president and relationship manager in New York, and Mark E. Frazier, CFA, as an associate vice president and associate relationship manager in Austin.

Mr. McCleary brings 13 years of experience in the financial services industry to his senior role in our firm's Houston office. He most recently served as vice president and co-portfolio manager with Fruth Investment Management, a Houston-based registered investment advisor, where he also co-managed client service for high-net-worth individuals and families. Previously, he served eight years as a vice president and portfolio manager at King Investment Advisors, where he was as a member of the firm's Investment Advisory Group and chiefly responsible for the firm's overall positioning and market strategy. Mr. McCleary began his career in the investment business at Beutel Goodman Capital Management, where he worked as an analyst on a $2 billion mid-to-large cap domestic equities portfolio. He earned a Bachelor of Arts from Vanderbilt University and was graduated summa cum laude. He also holds the Chartered Financial Analyst designation and is a member of the CFA Institute.

Mr. Ross brings more than seven years of industry experience to his senior role in our firm's New York office. Specifically, he has specialized in working directly with investors and their families to formulate and manage customized investment strategies and wealth management solutions. Most recently, Mr. Ross managed client portfolios on a daily basis as an investment manager for Bestinvest Brokers in London, one of the United Kingdom's largest independent wealth management firms. Born and raised in Scotland, Mr. Ross earned a Bachelor of Arts in Economics from the University of Durham in England and a Masters in Business Administration from the Harvard Business School.

Mr. Frazier brings more than 10 years of investment industry experience to his senior role in our firm's Austin office, where he will work closely with senior relationship managers to provide customized wealth management solutions to their clients. Most recently, Mr. Frazier was an equity research associate with Brandes Investment Partners, an independent investment management firm. Previously, he served in institutional portfolio management and private client services at Brandes. He earned a Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration with a concentration in finance from Washington State University and holds the Chartered Financial Analyst designation.

"The addition of these experienced professionals to Atlantic Trust's growing national footprint underscores our ongoing commitment to hiring the best talent across the firm as we continue to provide our clients with superior service and tailored investment solutions," said Jack Markwalter, Atlantic Trust chairman and CEO.

"The Houston, New York and Austin markets are critical to our success. We have strong, experienced leadership in each location – Scott Caven, managing director in Houston; Eric Propper, president and COO in New York; and Mark Powell, managing director in Austin – and are committed to growing our presence for the benefit of our clients."
